WHAT YOU DON'T KNOW ABOUT

California

In told in a beautifully illustrated book entitled "The California and Back" Ask G. F. Nicholson, G. F. A., Santa Fe Route, Topeka, Kan., for a copy.

Personally conducted weekly parties leave Chicago every Saturday evening, and Kansas City every Sunday morning for Topeka, Col., via Santa Fe Route. Special agents and porters in attendance. Fatigue tickets are issued, and furnished with all conveniences for comfortable traveling. Second-class tickets honored.

You have been planning that California trip for several years. Why not go now, and take advantage of cheap rates? Santa Fe Route is positively the only line with Pullman tourist and palace sleepers, Chicago and Kansas City to San Francisco and Los Angeles, daily without change.

HOSTESS AND GUESTS.

Some of the Unwritten Laws That Govern the House Party.

The practice of giving house parties during the late autumn months has been so much a part of American social life, that a few rules governing them may not be out of place.

The average invitation is for four nights, from Tuesday to Saturday, and intimate friends are invited to remain beyond that date. The hour of arrival is not left entirely to the discretion of the guests, and the hostess either mentions the hour at which the most convenient train will arrive, or requests them to tell her by what train she may expect them. When a long notice is given, the details are arranged within a week of a visit, but it is an understood thing that guests should arrive between 5 and 6 o'clock p. m., if possible, and not early in the afternoon, neither should they leave it doubtful as to what time of the day they intend arriving, as it would be an awkward contempment to find the hostess not at home on arrival, and have anticipated her welcome by a couple of hours.

7. Actuality of meals is one of the canons of good taste on the part of guests. At a dinner party, either in town or country, a host and hostess have to submit to the inevitable and wait with what patience they can for tardy arrivals; but guests under the roof of hosts and hostesses have no such latitude allowed them, and at the second sound of the gong they are expected to assemble and await with their exteriors the announcement of dinner, which follows within five to ten minutes after the gong has sounded through the house. Early rising is so much of a characteristic of the times, that to be punctual to breakfast is scarcely a merit, and it is no longer considered ultra-fashionable to appear long after the recognized breakfast hour. Ten minutes grace is tacitly conceded, not that the host and hostess wait for guests at this meal, but that no excuse is needed for so slight a delay. Again, at luncheon guests are expected to obey the call of the gong to the minute, even if they have not already found their way to the drawing room before the luncheon hour has struck. Afternoon tea demands only semi-punctuality, but guests seldom take advantage of this, and are probably true to the hour. The guests of a party, on the other hand, are seldom in at luncheon time, and their appearance at the tea hour is not to be counted upon. A late return from shooting in a grimy and muddy condition often induces them to hide and rest in the smoking room rather than to array themselves for conquest. There are men, however, who would not miss the tea hour with the ladies, and so make a hasty toilet after a day's shooting to join their guests.

As with the meals of the day, so with every engagement throughout it; guests are expected to be ready at the hour named for whatever expedition is set on foot, and not to keep five or six others and others of a party waiting their tardy appearance. Providing that guests take the trouble to be punctual, their individual idiosyncrasies do not strike their hostesses unpleasantly if any come to the front. They are the part of a party, and their individuality impresses itself more upon their fellow-guests than upon their hostesses; the reverse is the case when a hostess has but one guest in place of many. Then it is that the bearing of a guest makes a visit a success or a failure, as far as the pleasure derived from it by a hostess is concerned.

Almost every hostess has come across a guest who has proved somewhat impossible, difficult to manage and please, and selfishly inconsiderate, and who contrasted unfavorably with some sweet, charming and considerate one who had immediately preceded her and whose departure was felt with as keen a regret as that of her predecessor's was hailed with relief. It might be supposed that ladies when guests in a house would make the best of adverse circumstances, to wit, the weather, but as a fact they compare in the shade the degree to which the pack he has been with—Pleasure.

—Wibbles—The girls who pose as living pictures, do they make big money? Wabblers—No, only a bare living.—Buffalo Courier.

—Old Crusty says it is perfectly proper for a woman to speak of her husband as landed property.—Philadelphia Record.

—Not important.—They say that Leighton Goldwater is losing his mind.—"Well, he's lucky if that's all he's losing."—Detroit Echo.

—Why is Smith always singing 'Give me the old-time religion?'—'Didn't take up any collection on those days.'—Atlanta Constitution.

—Hicks—How foolish it is to be always against the rich!—Wicks—Yes, but then it is safer than monkeying with the common people.—Boston Transcript.

—Mother-in-Law—Now that you are married I hope you won't commit any more tomfoolery. Son-in-Law—No; I can assure you this is my last.—Half-Holiday.

—Are you fond of hunting?—'It all depends,' replied the man who is superlatively precise, "on whether you mean deer or a collar button."—Washington Star.

—Tommy is an awful fellow to play awinding schemes.—'What's he done now?'—'He got an accident, insurance policy and then joined a foot ball team.'—Chicago Record.

—At a party the other day, in this stanza, what is meant by the line, "The shades of night were falling fast?"—Clever Scholar—The people were pulling down the blinds.—Tit-Bits.

—Mrs. Gobbler—Children, see that man over there with the full?—'Yes, mother.'—'Well, he's a good fellow, but I don't like to see him so full.'—Syracuse Post.

—'Full sleeves are very popular,' said the girl who was designing a new dress.—'Yes,' replied the girl who enjoys foot loaf, "but not as popular as full backs."—Washington Star.

—Professor (returning home at night, hears noise)—Is some one there?—Burglar (under the bed)—No, Professor.—That's strange! I was positive some one was under the bed.—Tit-Bits.

—Friend—When are you going to paint that gastronomic genre picture you spoke of?—Artist—Heaven knows! Every time I get ready the model tempts me and I eat it up!—Elegante Bistrot.

Mavelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Lunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's new discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist church at River Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succeeding a gripe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little intermission and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's new discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at A. W. Foreman's drug store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

Wholehearted in Favor.

The best dressmakers no longer are willing to use the substitutes in the market for the old-fashioned whalebones. They insist on going back to those for the darts and seams of gowns. They are put in, however, with a difference. The casings are soaked in the lincing and then the bones, which have been soaked in a basin of water till they are perfectly flexible, are run inside the made coverings and cut off, as they may easily be. The bone may even be covered through with the lincing and when it is thus softened by soaking—Philadelphia Press.

RELIGIOUS AND EDUCATIONAL.

A biblical student has figured out that Solomon's temple was only 107 feet long, 36 feet wide and 34 feet high.

—Mrs. Barnes, wife's secretary of the Young Women's Branch of the W. C. T. U., reports seven hundred young people in the unions in South Africa.

—Gen. Booth, of the Salvation Army has six children engaged in the great work he has in hand, and they are clever, sensible, eloquent and earnest enough to do credit to his training.

—The permanent fund of the board of relief of the Presbyterian church has been growing from year to year until it reached at the end of the last fiscal year the handsome sum of $1,380,776.74.

—A feature of the travel from New Haven to New York on Saturday afternoons is the large number of Yale students. There are no recitations on Saturday afternoons, and the student takes that opportunity to come to New York. The return time is on Sunday afternoon.

—When Dr. McCosh first came to Princeton his daughters somewhat astonished gallant undergraduates who took the young ladies out to walk. It was no mere easy jaunt of a mile or so that these Princetonians indulged in, but a tramp of a dozen miles at a good round pace that tested the powers of their escorts.

—The salvation army began operations against Hawaii two months ago, establishing a Fort Hovey at Honolulu on October 13, sixty-one of the enemy had been captured, and a representative of nearly every one of the dozen or so nationalities in the city were among the converts. There were twenty-four Hawaiians, eight Chinese and a Caroline Islander among the number.

—Ninety-five years ago the Religious tract society was founded. Since then it has printed the Gospels in 101 languages. It has issued the "Pilgrim's Progress" in eighty-seven languages; its New Testament commentary has appeared in Chinese, Arabic, Syriac, Marathi, Bengali, Tamil, Urdu, Hindi, Canarese, Sinhalese and Karen. Last year it sent out 67,000,000 of publications.

—Miss Smallwood, a young colored woman who has succeeded in working her way through a two years' course in the kindergarten, is raising the money to start a kindergarten for Negro children in connection with the Haines school in Augusta, Ga. There is only one other kindergarten for colored children in the South, and Miss Smallwood was so well liked by her teachers and classmates that they are doing all in their power to help her raise money for the object in view.

—The first colored woman to receive the degree of M. A. in the United States was Miss Mary Patterson, who was graduated from Oberlin college in 1862. In speaking of her the Woman's Era, of Boston, says: "The schools of the district have sustained an irreparable loss in the death of Miss Patterson, who for twenty-five years rendered valuable service as a teacher. When Oberlin college opened its doors to women she was courageous, indeed, who dared to brave public opinion by taking what was commonly called the 'colored' course, on the principle that it belonged exclusively to the lords of creation, and no woman need apply. Only young women of the loftiest ambition and the keenest thirst for knowledge presented themselves as candidates for the degree of A. B."

—A merry heart doeth good like a medicine.—Bible.

—The "soft answer" precipitates the deaf man's wrath.—Brenham Press.

—Papa, what is a fad?—'A fad, my son, is somebody else's fancy.'—Tit-Bits.

—The most beautiful pictures are those that lovers carry in their eyes.—Galveston Star.

—When a woman's face is her fortune, nine times out of ten she will die a pauper.—Falls Creek Herald.

—The politician who has been lost in the shoe store does not think much of the pack he has been with.—Pleasure.

—Wibbles—The girls who pose as living pictures, do they make big money? Wabblers—No, only a bare living.—Buffalo Courier.
